Natural-gas processing is a range of industrial processes designed to purify raw natural gas by removing impurities, contaminants and higher molecular mass hydrocarbons to produce what is known as pipeline quality dry natural gas. Natural-gas processing begins at the well head. The composition of the raw natural gas extracted from producing wells depends on the type, depth, and location of the underground deposit and the geology of the area. Oil and natural gas are often found together in the sa

Handbook of Natural Gas Transmission and Processing ...

Abstract. For natural gas to be available to the market, it must be gathered, processed, and transported. Quite often, collected natural gas (raw gas) must be transported over a substantial distance in pipelines of different sizes, due to drive for reduced field processing facilities particularly for offshore fields.

Natural gas processing consists of separating all of the various hydrocarbons and fluids from the pure natural gas, to produce what is known as 'pipeline quality' dry natural gas. Major transportation pipelines usually impose restrictions on the make-up of the natural gas that is allowed into the pipeline.
